

Why A College Coach

Would you agree that one of the top challenges college students face today is staying in college? What about finishing college in 4 - 5 years?

Research has shown that 1 in 4 college students drop out in their first year and only 1/2 will graduate within 6 years. Do you want your child to be listed in those statistics?

Personal College Coaches with The Lattitude Group's college division, Lattitude 4 U, are committed to developing strategies that will inspire successful behavior in college students so they are motivated to do well in school, stay in school, stay on track to graduate, and are better prepared for the future. How do they do this?

Lattitude 4 U personal college coaches use a proven results-driven personal development process that tackles issues such as:

- Focus and direction
- Time management
- Financial management
- Organization
- Career Choices
- Goals Planning & Achievement
- Effective Communication
- Positive attitude and self-esteem
- Personal accountability
- Responsible behavior
- Proactive rather than reactive thinking
- Independence

Our personal college coaches offer ongoing support, structure, action plans and constructive feedback that strategically keep the students on track in achieving the goals they set for themselves. Developing and utilizing the right tools for college success can mean the difference between continuing in college and graduating, or feeling like a failure and dropping out. Navigating college doesn't have to be a nightmare; our personal coaches help college students achieve their dreams. Personal pride in a successful college experience is priceless. Hiring a Lattitude 4 U personal college coach can provide peace of mind and a great Return On Investment (ROI). Our process is well worth the investment. Imagine the savings you might enjoy by avoiding the unplanned expenditures of additional semesters/years needed for your student to finish college.
